MARINE AVIATION

By MAJ. GEN. W. J. WALLACE
Assistant Commandant (Air) U. S. Marine Corps

MARINE Aviation has been furnishing supporting air components for their ground forces since the periods when Marines were in Nicaragua and Haiti, during which Marine Aviation dropped pay rolls, rations and shoes. They also scouted out
bandit concentrations and spearheaded attacks against those concentrations with bombing and strafing
runs. The primary mission of Marine Aviation
has always been
the support of marine ground
forces.

Maj. Gen. Wallace

The National Security Act of 1947 did not change the role of Marine Aviation.
It provided that the Marine Corps
should be organized, trained and equipped to provide fleet marine forces of combined arms, together with supporting air components. In addition, the secondary mission of Marine Aviation is that of constituting a reserve for Naval Aviation.

To fulfill the mission of aerial support, priority has been given to exploiting the special capabilities of aircraft which help
the ground fighting Marine to take his objective and reduce his casualties on the way. The successful discharge of both these missions calls for versatility, intensive training and a willingness to improvise. Experimentation, and many times, improvisation, brought about perfection of techniques such as dive bombing, the use of air support control teams and finally the modern fighter bomber used as a close support weapon. The fighter bomber is the answer to the Marine Aviator's prayer for adequate tools.

Today Marine Aviation is concentrating on improving its methods of close support. The first step, standardization of types, has been accomplished. There are now only two types of tactical operating squadrons—fighter and utility. Fighter squadrons with the exception of night
fighters are equipped with the Chance Vought Corsair which has proven itself in the dual role of fighter-bomber.

At present all fighter squadrons are engaged in transitional training for Marine Corps pilots who were trained in dive bombers, torpedo bombers and types
other than fighters. Soon the bulk of Marine Aviators will be proficient in all types of Marine aircraft. Some of these squadrons are carrier based, the others while temporarily based ashore are trained to operate from carriers. Each squadron must be ready to perform all the missions of a carrier based unit. This phase of operation fulfills the secondary mission, that of constituting a reserve for

Presidential Approval
Given Retirement Bill

President Truman on 29 June signed HR 2744, the bill providing a system of forced attrition and extending the privilege of retirement in wartime temporary ranks to the Regular Army and Air Force,
and establishing non-disability retirements for the Reserve components of all the Armed Services.

At the same time the President issued a statement pointing out the benefits now
extended to National Guard and Reserve personnel and their importance as an incentive to those organizations.

In his statement, the President called upon the Regular and Reserve services to work together "in full partnership in maintaining a vigorous and effective National Defense," indicating thereby his wish that the components discontinue the bickering and charges and cross-charges which have characterized their relationships in recent years.

The President's statement follows:

"I have today signed H.R. 2744, Title
III of which provides for retirement benefits for individuals who remain active in the various programs for the Reserve components of our armed forces for at least 20 years.

"Reserve personnel of the Army, the Air Force, the Navy, the Marine Corps,
and the Coast Guard alike will receive retirement benefits under this Title in direct proportion to the time and effort expended in the Reserves. These benefits will furnish an added incentive, which has been lacking heretofore, for well-trained men to remain active in the Reserves for a number of years. By making this kind of provision for the establishment of a career Reserve, this Title is a very significant step forward in our organization for national defense.

"The way is now open to the development of an ever-ready Reserve as an integral part of the United States armed forces. To achieve this end is the responsibility of the civilian heads of the National Defense agencies. But in a deeper sense the responsibility rests on the officers and enlisted men of the Regular armed forces and their counterparts in the Reserve forces of each Service.

"If the standing forces of the Regular establishments are to be kept small, as is the tradition in the United States, the civilian Reserve must always be ready as part of the trained nucleus around which
a citizen Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and Air Force can be built if the need ever arises. The Reserve and Regular forces must therefore work together in effective teamwork, with the Regular services providing the equipment,
the training facilities and the expert guidance needed by the Reserve forces, and the Reserve personnel devoting their best efforts to keeping our national defense establishment in a constant state of readiness.

"As Commander-in-Chief, I call upon the Regular services to work with the Reserves in full partnership in maintaining a vigorous and effective national defense. As a civilian who has been a Reserve officer for many years, I call upon

Command Training Divisions

Secretary of the Army Royall on 30
June announced the names of the four General Officers who will command the new training divisions which are to be activated under the Army expansion program to train recruits brought in under enlistments and Selective Service. The four Generals named are:

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, to command
the 5th Armored Division at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Maj. Gen. William R. Schmidt, to command the 101st Airborne Division at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

Maj. Gen. Lester J. Whitlock, to command
the 10th Infantry (Mountain) Division at Ft.
Riley, Kans.

Brig. Gen. Wayne C. Zimmerman, to command the 17th Airborne Division at Camp Pickett, Va.

Draft Law Operation

Selectees brought into the Armed Forces under the Selective Service Act
of 1948, which becomes effective 22 Sept., will be handled and trained exactly as volunteers for the Regular Services,
rather than apart in special training camps as was the case in World Wars
I and II.

Men drafted for the Army will be sent
first to recruiting or induction stations near their homes, after which they will go to one of eight training centers. Training Divisions now in operation are the 4th Infantry Division, Ft. Ord, Calif.; 5th
Infantry Division, Ft. Jackson, S. C.; 9th Infantry Division, Ft. Dix, N. J.; and 3d Armored Division, Ft. Knox, Ky. New Training Divisions will be the 10th Infantry (Mountain) Division, Ft. Riley, Kans.; 5th Armored Division, Camp
Chaffee, Ark.; 101st Airborne Division, Camp Breckenridge, Ky.; and 17th Airborne Division, Camp Pickett, Va.

In addition there will be combat units of less than Division size as well as service and supporting troops training at Ft.
Bliss, Texas; Camp Carson, Colo.; Ft.
Meade, Md.; Camp Cooke, Calif.; Ft.
Devens, Mass., and Ft. Worden, Wash.

The military equipment for training will be largely that used or developed in the recent war. Many of the latest types of weapons will not immediately be available in sufficient quantities for the Army.
However, limited funds will be utilized for rehabilitation of weapons and other equipment, which will be ample in quantity and quality for training a modern army in methods and techniques. The training doctrine is flexible and its application will be geared to the foreseeable progress of scientific developments and of new weapons and other equipment.

Navy and Air Force

Those men drafted for the Navy and Marine Corps, like those drafted for the Army, will get no special treatment, but will go to one of the regularly established training centers and be handled and trained in the same manner as volunteers.

The Air Force, which does not anticipate the need of any draftees to bring its personnel to authorized strength, will, in the "remote contingency" that voluntary enlistments fall below anticipations, send selectees to Lackland Air Force Base, Calif., just as present volunteers are regu-

Senate Group Planning
To Act On Pay Report

Upward revision of service pay and consideration of a uniform system of military justice for the three Services are among matters to be taken up by the Senate Committee on Armed Services
early in the next session.

Studies made by special committees appointed by Secretary of Defense For-restal will be ready by that time, together with Mr. Forrestal's own recommendations. The pay committee probably will have finished its work by August. However, the study of a unified system of military justice, to be undertaken at the request of Senator Chan Gurney, chairman of the Senate committee, is awaiting the appointment of a chairman of the committee. It is understood that Mr. Justice Roberts is being urged to accept that post, but has not yet accepted.

Representative Dewey Short (R-Mo.),
who is scheduled to become chairman of the House Committee on Armed Services
next year when Representative Andrews
retires, told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL
this week that although he has not discussed the matter with Mr. Andrews or the other Committee members, it seems to him that pay will be one of the first matters to have House committee attention.

Meanwhile the professional staff of the Senate Committee will gather facts on these subjects for independent presentation to that committee.

Senator Gurney told the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL this week that he hopes to get something accomplished on the new pay scale by next Spring.

In the meantime, plans are going forward to get early action on a bill to continue the present special military exemptions from the Federal income tax, at least until new pay rates are enacted into law. The present exemptions will expire the end of this calendar year, the bill to extend them having failed of passage in the 80th Congress. However, Service leaders are confident that Congress will act
before any Service members are called upon to pay 1949 income taxes.

The proposed unified system of military justice is a project in which the Senate Committee is particularly interested. The new system enacted for the Army as part of the draft bill will not take effect until eight months after approval of the bill, which means not until late next February. Meanwhile, the Air Force is going ahead setting up its own Judge Advocate General with its separate administration of military justice within the USAF. The Senate group, however, hopes to secure the adoption of a unified courts martial system for all of the Services and, by inference, to repeal the new Army system.

Also scheduled for early consideration
will be legislation arising from the "Gray Report," now in process of formation, as a basis for providing for the development of all civilian components of the Armed Services; re-introduction of bills providing for crediting Academy service for pay, or pay and retirement purposes (this legislation passed the Senate but was not acted on, although reported, by the House

the Reserves to accept their responsibilities and, in the fullest measure, to live up to the opportunities which this legislation gives them."

The Adjutants General of both the Army and the Air Force are busy combing the records of retired personnel to locate those who were retired in grades lower than those in which they actually served during the War. When these are located orders will be issued promoting them on the retired list to the highest grade in which they served satisfactorily during the war and their pay will be increased to that of the new grade. There seems to be some legal question as to whether the pay will date from the date of their promotion or from the date of the Act, the general belief being the latter. At any rate both the Army and the Air Force are making good progress and hope to have their lists completed and the promotion orders issued within a very short time.

Meanwhile, studies are proceeding for the putting into operation of the new retirement system for the National Guard and Reserves of all Services. This section of the bill (Title III) becomes effective for each Service concerned when directed by the cognizant Secretary, "but not later than the first day of the seventh month following the date of enactment." Thus, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, or Air Force can put their reserve forces under the new system at any time independently of each other, but not later than 1 Jan. 1949.

Act on Pay Report (Continued from First Page)

In the closing days of the 80th Congress; and re-introduction of bills providing for a common Federal appointment in the Army Reserves. This passed the Senate but was held up in the House.

Senator Gurney points out that the "watch-dog" subcommittee has a program that will keep its members active during the recess. This subcommittee, charged by a Senate Resolution with the duty of keeping close watch of military expenditures, and the effect of draft and National Guard and Reserve legislation, has Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass.), as its chairman, and Senators Morse (R-Ore.), Baldwin (R-Conn.), Tydings (D-Md.), and Byrd (D-Va.), as other members.

The agenda of this subcommittee calls for activity on the part of the professional staff of the full committee, each of whom will cover a section of the nation to carry out the specified objectives, visiting permanent installations of the Departments of the Military Establishment, and the State headquarters of the National Guard and ORC, as well as the training

Inactive Duty Training Pay

A system of priorities will be set up to determine those units of the Organized Reserve whose members will receive pay for inactive duty training under the new law and the $12,000,000 made available in appropriations. In announcing the system this week, Secretary of the Army Royall stated that preference will be given to units which will be part of the 18-Division Army planned for the coming year.

Reserve personnel in units supporting the 18-Division Army total some 314,000 officers and men, and with a view of utilizing the limited funds available for 1949 to the best advantage the Department of the Army as the first step establishing training categories for the types of units concerned. These training categories are relative and reflect the minimum amount of training each type unit should receive each year to bring it to a minimum standard acceptable for D-Day readiness.

Training Category I includes units requiring the maximum amount of training yearly which for the Reserve Components is set at 48 drills with at least 15 days active field training. Training Category II requires 24 drills per year; Category III, 12 drills per year; and Category IV, 4 drills per year. A fifth training category is established which includes highly specialized units requiring a minimum of military training. Training Category I units will be mainly combat support units, such as a tank battalion which obviously requires maximum preparation for combat. Only units which are authorized to have full complements of officers and enlisted men will be placed in this first category. Pay priorities are based upon the training categories thus established.

Priorities

First priority will be given to some 35,000 Reservists who are members of units in Category I, and require 48 drills per year in addition to field training. In the case of these organizations, the Army will reserve sufficient funds to insure their maximum training for the coming year.

Second priority for pay will be given to the Reserve units of the 18-Division Army which fall in Categories II, III and IV since it was desired to bring along all the units of these categories on a pay basis regardless of the number of drills per year established as a minimum for D-Day service.

Funds which may be available beyond this point will be utilized for other reservists, on the following priority basis: Third priority: Individuals having Department of the Army mobilization assignments and necessary filler replacements for the 18-Division Army.

Fourth priority: Reserve units which require 24, 12 or four training periods per year in order to perform their assigned missions, but which are not part of the 18-Division Army.

Fifth priority: All reservists not included in the above schedule.

Appoint Medical Committee

Medical aspects of civil defense in the event of a future enemy attack on the United States will be discussed by a special advisory committee representing the medical and allied professions which meets in Washington 6 July with Mr. Russell J. Hopley, Director of the Office of Civil Defense Planning. Headed by Dr. Perrin H. Long, professor of preventive medicine at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, the committee has formulated a tentative peacetime organization that could be quickly expanded should a national emergency arise.

Members of the Medical Advisory Committee include: Brig. Gen. J. M. Hargreaves, M. C. Office, Air Surgeon; Col. E. S. Standlee, M. C. Office Surgeon General, Army; Capt. C. C. Myers, M. C. USN Office Surgeon General, Navy; and Lt. Col. K. E. Baltz, N. C. Office Surgeon General, Navy.

Complete Army Promotions

With virtually all of the details connected with the selection of permanent majors and captains of the Regular Army completed, it is planned to have all promotions connected with the setting up of the new Army Promotion list made public on 15 July.

After the promotions made to set up the new list, there will be no more promotions made until after 1 Jan. 1949. Boards to set up new lists will be appointed and start work in the Fall.

Gen. Wheeler to Stay

Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, USA, has withdrawn his application for retirement and agreed to remain on active duty as Chief of Engineers. The application was to have become effective 30 June. General Wheeler will reach the statutory retirement age in July of 1949.

It is understood that General Wheeler withdrew his application at the request of Secretary Royall. Secretary Royall, on the other hand, it is said, did not press his request for General Wheeler to remain on active duty until after final approval of the legislation which obviated the necessity of reducing a number of generals and lieutenant generals to lower grades. Had not this law been enacted, as it was in the closing days, General Wheeler would have been reduced to his permanent grade of major general if he had remained on active duty.

34th Inf. Division Meeting

Former members of the 34th Infantry Division will meet 14 July at 8:00 p.m. at the Ft. Lesley J. McNair Officers' Club, Washington.

Army H. Q. To Heidelberg

The U. S. Army operational staff in Germany has moved into the old German barracks in Heidelberg from Frankfurt which is soon to become the capital of West Germany.

All that remains in Frankfurt are 11 sections for which it was difficult to find space in Heidelberg and which, having little to do with strategic or tactical planning, can operate conveniently in Frankfurt. These include the office of the Inspector General, the departments of finance, audit and claims, the Judge Advocate General's office, the historical and publications branches, and the Allied Military Mission contact section.

General Lucius D. Clay has split his official staff. As American military governor he has always carried on his administrative work in Berlin and, as American commander in chief, he has had his headquarters in Frankfurt. Now he has sent his military deputy—Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner—with his staff to Heidelberg.

Instruction Material Available

In an effort to satisfy numerous requests from members of the Organized Reserve Corps and the National Guard, The Ground General School, Ft. Riley, Kans., has assembled packages of instructional material by course and by subject which are available at nominal price to cover cost of reproduction and handling. Price list is available from the Adjutant General, The Ground General School, Ft. Riley.

Asst. Chief of Engineers

Promotion of Col. P. A. Feringa, Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works, to the rank of Brigadier General was announced 29 June by Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, Chief of Engineers. In a ceremony attended by a number of fellow officers and civilian associates, General Wheeler pinned the star indicative of the new rank on General Feringa.

At its recent session, Congress passed an act providing that the officer of the Corps of Engineers assigned to duty as Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works shall, while assigned to such duty, have the rank of Brigadier General. The act was signed by President Truman last Friday.

General Feringa has been Assistant Chief of Engineers for Civil Works since April, 1946. In that office he has exercised supervisory control over the complete program of Federal flood control and river and harbor projects assigned to the Corps of Engineers.

Enlisted Men With Generals

The Department of the Army announced this week, in Circular No. 170, that general officers transferred from one assignment to another may take with them such enlisted men of their personal staff as they desire. The Circular states:

"In order that general officers may retain enlisted men of their personal staff upon permanent reassignment from one command to another under the provisions of Sect. II, AR 606-90, the command from which the general officer has been relieved is authorized to reassign enlisted personnel of such general officer's personal staff in numbers, not to exceed the numbers indicated in paragraph 8a, AR 606-90, to the command to which the general officer has been reassigned, provided the general officer so desires, and provided it is practicable for him to have an enlisted personal staff upon his next assignment."

Also released this week is a new print of AR 615-200, "Enlisted Men, Transfers," dated 16 June 1948 and superseding the one of the same number dated 16 Aug. 1946. The new print states that "Enlisted men will be transferred only for the convenience of the Government, when such action will result in substantial benefit to the military service. Transfers will not be made solely for the convenience of the enlisted man or his family."

The new regulation contains paragraphs telling how transfers are effected, by whom effected, transfers in grade, etc.

Negro ROTC Units

Secretary of the Army Royall, on 29 June announced the establishment of new Senior Division ROTC units in three Negro educational institutions effective 1 July. The establishment of these units is a step toward the procurement of officer personnel in technical and administrative services.

At present there are ten Senior Division ROTC units in Negro colleges, which when in full operation, will commission approximately four hundred reserve officers annually. Only one of the presently established ROTC units provides officers for the technical and administrative services; the other units provide training for Infantry, Field Artillery and Antiaircraft Artillery units.

After an extensive survey by the Department of the Army of the curricula and facilities present at the schools which had requested ROTC units, the following institutions were selected:

Transportation Corps—Southern University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, Scottsbluff, Nebraska.
Antiaircraft Artillery—Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College, Tallahassee, Florida.
Infantry—Morgan State College, Baltimore, Maryland.

Third Division Reunion

The Society of the Third Infantry Division, U. S. Army, will hold its annual reunion in Pittsburgh, Pa., 22-24 July. All World War I and World War II members of the Division are invited to attend. Reservations may be had through Bob Woodside, R. D. 1, Evans City, Pa., or from the Hotel William Penn, Pittsburgh.

Gen. Eisenhower on Free Press

Without freedom of the press our whole system of political freedom would disappear, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, now President of Columbia University, declared 26 June at the dedication of a multi-million-dollar addition to the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., plant of the International Business Machine Corporation, cornerstone of which was laid by Mr. Thomas J. Watson, IBM President.

General Eisenhower described the building as "a symbol of the faith America has in the system of free enterprise." Excerpts from his address follow:

"The political freedoms we know, the American concept of democracy, certainly include a faith, related to some religion, that man is more than an animal, that he possesses a soul.

"If we have not that faith, then why should any of us admit that any other is born with equal rights to himself? Each of us instinctively recognizes, and our forefathers so stated, that an individual, because he is born, possesses certain rights. And to prove that, we must go back and depend upon faith, and faith alone; and I say it is a faith, akin to religion, to most of us.

"It depends upon a system of free enterprise because eventually, if any government or any individual—or in any other way all property residing within a nation's borders were owned by the government or by a particularly small group of individuals, there would be no recourse for that government or for those individuals except to order each of us in the way of life we must follow, in order to make that tremendous, staggering business a success.

"Without free enterprise, the political freedom we know cannot exist, because if that government has to order each of us to do our job, it could not permit strikes, it could not permit incitement to strike, and freedom of the press, which is the very foundation upon which our whole system of political freedom depends, would disappear.

"Finally, there must be included in any concept of democracy, as we attempt to practice it, a readiness to cooperate in the performance of our functions—such functions as the national security and the establishment of rule and order among us so that even our own system, with all its virtues, may not fall prey to its own weaknesses, may not be exploited by people of evil intent."

New York leads the world's cities with the most telephones. It has 2,600,000—more than in all of France. In relation to population, San Francisco is on top with about one telephone for every two people. Washington ranks a close second.

And we're still building and expanding at the fastest rate in history. The value of telephone service is increasing constantly.

New Chief of Naval Research
Rear Adm. Thorvald A. Solberg USN, was sworn in as Chief of Naval Research on 1 July, succeeding Rear Adm. Paul F. Lee, who retired this week.

Admiral Solberg, who has been serving as a member of the Military Liaison Committee to the Atomic Energy Commission, took the oath of office from Rear Adm. George L. Russell, Navy Judge Advocate General, at a ceremony in the office of the Secretary of the Navy. During World War II Admiral Solberg served as head of the Navy Technical Section of the U. S. Naval Attache's Office, London, England, and as head of the Research and Standards Branch, Shipbuilding Division, Bureau of Ships. In 1946 he served as director of ship material for the atomic bomb tests at Bikini.

Admiral Lee became the first director of the then new Office of Naval Research on 1 Nov. 1946, after having previously served as assistant head of the Shipbuilding Division of the Bureau of Ships during the war.

In a letter to Rear Admiral Lee expressing appreciation for his outstanding services in war and peace, Secretary Sullivan said:

"Upon your detachment as Chief of Naval Research and your retirement from the Naval Service, I wish to express to you my appreciation and that of the Navy Department for the outstanding services you have rendered in war and peace.

"As Assistant Head of the Shipbuilding Division of the Bureau of Ships during the war, you were responsible in large measure for the completion on time of the greatest shipbuilding program ever undertaken by any country. Despite frequent and sometimes sudden shifts of emphasis among various types of ships, your exceptional foresight and professional ability enabled you to provide for the timely and uninterrupted delivery of new vessels to our growing fleet.

"Subsequently, as Chief of Naval Research from 1946 to date, you directed the most extensive program of basic research the Navy has ever had. This endeavor involved obtaining the cooperation of the world's foremost civilian scientists and of the leading universities and scientific centers in the United States and abroad. The relationships which you established between the Navy and these sources of scientific progress are invaluable to our national security.

"I wish you every success as you begin a new phase of your career."

Bigger Job for Navy

If the United States has to fight another war, the Navy will have a task that will not only dwarf our efforts in World War II, but will surpass any naval effort in history, according to Vice Adm. Arthur W. Radford, Vice Chief of Naval Operations.

Speaking before the recent 11th annual reunion of navy clubs held in Ft. Wayne, Ind., Admiral Radford declared:

"We can be thankful that we have some part of our wartime Navy left, for without it, the future of the United States would be about as bright as that of a fat turkey in the middle of November."

Navy Flag Officers

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance retired from the Navy this week with the benefits of special legislation enacted by the 80th Congress in recognition of his achievements during World War II.

Under authority of Public Law 791, Admiral Spruance will retire with the same pay and allowances authorized for officers on active duty in the rank of admiral.

Admiral Spruance completed his duties on 1 July as president of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I. During World War II he played a decisive part in the victory of United States forces in the Pacific. He has served in the United States Navy for 45 years.

Under separate legislation, Public Law 804 of the 80th Congress, which was approved by President Truman on 28 June 1948, two other admirals who made outstanding achievements with combatant forces during World War II are being retained in their rank until 1 July 1950, at which time they will have reached the statutory age of retirement.

They are Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, Commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, and Admiral Henry K. Hewitt, now serving on Military Staff Committee, Security Council, United Nations.

Four other four-star admirals remain on active duty in the Navy. They are: Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations; Admiral DeWitt C. Ramsey, Commander in Chief, Pacific, and Pacific Fleet; Admiral Richard L. Conolly, Commander in Chief, United States Naval Forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean; and Admiral William H. P. Blandy, Commander in Chief, Atlantic, and Atlantic Fleet.

Three vice admirals, however, are reverting to their permanent rank of rear admiral, having been transferred to assignments which do not carry the three-star grade. They are: James L. Knuffman, to 4th Naval District; Daniel E. Barbey, to 10th Naval District and Charles H. McMorris, to 14th Naval District.

Navy General Board Chairman

Rear Adm. John F. Shafroth, jr., USN, relieved Vice Admiral Charles H. McMorris, USN, 30 June, as chairman of the General Board of the Navy at a ceremony in the office of Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan.

In the ceremony, Admiral McMorris read orders detaching him from the General Board and assigning him to duty as Commandant of the Fourteenth Naval District and Commander of the Hawaiian Sea Frontier, with headquarters at Pearl Harbor, Territory of Hawaii; and Admiral Shafroth read his orders to assume the chairmanship of the General Board.

Admiral McMorris, who has served as chairman of the General Board since 1 December 1947, will assume his new duties next month.

Admiral Shafroth, former Commandant of the Fifteenth Naval District, has been serving as a member of the General Board since April.

Marine Corps Aviation

Naval Aviation. Final emphasis in training is placed upon readiness to render close support of ground units as a culmination of a well-rounded fighter syllabus.

In addition to fighters, Marine Aviation has utility squadrons flying transport aircraft. These units are trained for air lift of designated units in the Fleet Marine Force, and the supply and resupply of these units in situations where they cannot be supported by a scheduled transport service.

Utility squadrons are using Douglas Skymasters and Curtiss Commandos, which will soon be replaced by transport type aircraft especially designed for combat loading and for carrying troops and equipment.

No picture of present day Marine Aviation is complete without a description of the Reserve program. In the organized Reserve, fighter squadrons, flying Corsairs, are training under a syllabus which closely parallels the regular fighter program. In addition there are Marine Ground Control Intercept Squadrons. Like similar units in the regular service they are equipped with radar and communications gear, to control fighter aircraft, give warning of enemy aircraft and direct friendly fighter aircraft to interception of the enemy.

Last year the reserve squadrons were mobilized for a fifteen day training period. Fighter squadrons east of the Mississippi flew to Cherry Point, North Carolina. Those west of the Mississippi flew to El Toro, California. Ground personnel were lifted by regular Marine Utility squadrons. Over three hundred fighter aircraft were flown to the maneuvers with only one serious injury to personnel. Two similar maneuvers are planned for this summer.

We in Marine Aviation realize the limitations of present equipment. We must keep abreast of new trends in aviation and continually explore the possibilities of every new development that can make us better able to fulfill our mission.

Realization that ability to fly and fight under adverse weather conditions will be essential in event of war has led to an emphasis on instrument flying for all pilots. Instrument flight training squadrons, at Marine Corps Air Stations at Cherry Point and El Toro, give training and standardize procedure. In addition a fighter squadron, equipped with night fighter aircraft, on each coast, has been designated as an "All Weather Squadron." These units will conduct experiments and exercises to develop a technique for offensive fighter operations under bad weather conditions.

In 1947 a jet fighter squadron under the command of Lt. Col. Marion Carl, holder of a world speed record, was activated at Cherry Point. Another one is soon to be activated at El Toro. These squadrons are to explore the problems of jet operations in amphibious warfare.

A helicopter squadron was recently activated at the Marine Corps Air Station at Quantico. This is an experimental unit to investigate the possible utilization of rotary wing aircraft in amphibious operations.

Marine Aviation wants to be ready to make the most of new tools and equipment when they become available in effective military quantities. Meanwhile we maintain our proficiency in the use of existing aircraft and armament and can continue to say to the Marine on the ground: "We can support you from the air wherever you go and whenever you go."

Air Force Promotions

The list of officers selected for permanent promotion to the grade of lieutenant colonel, as recommended by a promotion board which met recently at USAF headquarters, will be made public in about two weeks, it was stated yesterday.

USAF Retired List

Secretary of Defense Forrestal has approved Transfer Order No. 16 relating to the transfer of personnel and personnel functions from the Department of the Army to the Department of the Air Force.

Under the Order there are transferred to the Department of the Air Force all retired commissioned officers, warrant officers, and enlisted personnel on the Retired List of the United States Army, who, at the time of their retirement, were members of the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, United States Army, the Air Service, the United States Army, the Air Corps, United States Army, or the Army Air Forces.

As a result of the new system the Air Force is now issuing its own orders for retirements—the first such one being that announcing the retirement of General Carl Spaatz.

Former air men, now retired, have in the past been carried on the Army's retired list and were designated as "USA-Ret." They will henceforth be designated "USAF-Ret."

In addition the Secretary of the Air Force is authorized to establish such retiring boards, physical disability review boards and boards of review for the purpose of reviewing discharges or dismissals, when review is properly requested, as are necessary to exercise the functions, powers, and duties transferred to the Department of the Air Force.

The Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel Administration, is responsible for the implementation of the transferred functions, and has assumed the various administrative aspects pertaining to promotion and separation of Air Force personnel which were formerly performed by the Adjutant General of the Army.

Flying Safety Program

The Department of the Air Force this week noted a considerable improvement in both the numbers and rates of fatalities and wrecks sustained by Air Force planes during 1947 as compared with 1946.

The improvement, the Air Force said, is attributed in great part to the efforts of Headquarters to establish an effective Flying Safety Program which has included numerous specific paths of endeavor. Among these is increasingly efficient aircraft accident investigation and analysis; extensive research into the cause factors involved in aircraft accidents with a view toward their elimination, and the establishment by AF directives and manuals of improved standards, techniques and procedures governing the operation of USAF aircraft.

A table of fatalities and wrecks showing the number and type of plane as well as the "rate" or number of planes per 100,000 flying hours is as follows:

Fatalities (worldwide)
Type and Model	1946		1947
	No.	Rate per 100,000 flying hours	No.	Rate per 100,000 flying hours
TOTAL	889	25	509	17
Bomber	316	48	198	29
Transport	353	24	212	17
Fighter	90	28	70	21
Trainer	72	8	67	7
Miscellaneous	52	24	13	11

Wrecks (worldwide)
Type and Model	1946		1947
	No.	Rate per 100,000 flying hours	No.	Rate per 100,000 flying hours
TOTAL	758	21	510	15
Bomber	141	21	66	10
Transport	108	7	78	6
Fighter	281	82	243	64
Trainer	117	12	86	9
Miscellaneous	111	51	37	33

In commenting upon the improvement the Department said that establishment of an energetic Safety Education Program including the requirements for and the general supervision of Air Craft Accident Study Classes had been of great value.

Cadets Receive AF Commissions

Twelve outstanding aviation cadets graduating 25 June at Williams Air Force Base, Chandler, Arizona, and Barksdale Air Force Base, Shreveport, La., were offered regular commissions in the U. S. Air Force.

The Air Force plans to offer regular USAF commissions to as many as five per cent of each cadet class for distinguished achievement in scholarship, leadership, and flying. Three thousand men will enter USAF cadet training during 1948. As in the past, graduates who receive commissions in the Air Force Reserve can apply for consideration for regular commissions.

Six of the twelve graduates selected for Regular Commissions received their appointments immediately:

Tommy F. Butler, Post Office Box 133, Elk City, Montgomery County, Kansas.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1948

"If war comes, we must be ready to fight at the beginning, or we may not get a chance to fight at all."—GENERAL GEORGE C. KENNEY, U. S. AIR FORCE.

OUR PRIORITY LIST

1. Development of strong Regular establishments, including early attainment of the Air Forces' 70-group goal, ready for instant action, backed and supported by a program of Universal Military Training, organized, equipped and trained to utilize modern materials of war, and coordinated with Industry and Labor kept intimately familiar with the manufacture and supply of such materials.
2. Retention of professionally efficient and devoted personnel through the establishment of pay scales commensurate with the rising cost of living and the increase granted in civilian pursuits; complete exemption from income tax for active and retired personnel; increase in per diem allowances; and compensation for Service personnel who use privately owned automobiles on Government business.
3. Provision for retirement with rank and pay of highest grade earned in wartime on an equal basis for all classes of personnel in all the Armed Services.
4. Authorization and appropriations for construction programs to replace temporary and inadequate housing at all permanent posts and stations at home and abroad.
5. Scientific research to keep our lead in atomic weapons, guided missiles, and biological gaseous and radio active agents, and development of methods for their use and for defense against them, plus effective safeguards in secrecy and against interception by labor disputes.
6. Development of a sound system for strong National Guard and Reserve Components of the Armed Forces working in close coordination with each other and with the Regular Establishments, and Federally equipped, housed, and trained, and with inactive duty training pay for all components.
7. Constant Service and Congressional study of the new promotion systems, operating with free and full publicity, to the end that justice will be assured to the individual and efficiency to the Government.
8. Enactment of a career plan for warrant officers of the Army and Air Force, improvement of their status and opportunities for advancement.
9. Continuance and expansion of Service Schools, including the National War College, Air University, Armed Forces Staff College, and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.
10. Upward revision of all Service widows' pension scales and expansion of the eligibility basis to insure them and their dependents a living income.

REAL progress was made during the 80th Congress just adjourned toward attainment of the objectives set by the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL in "Our Priority List" as carried at the head of this column. The strong Regular establishments, cited in the first paragraph, are being built under Congressional legislation which increased personnel strengths from 1,399,000 to 2,005,882, initiated the Air Forces' 70-group program, and appropriated a peace-time record total of $14 billions. UMT was shelved, but provision was made through a Selective Service bill for keeping the ranks filled. Unfortunately pay legislation was postponed, and it actually retrogressed because of the failure to extend military tax-exemptions beyond the current year. This was not due primarily to Congress, which showed its understanding of the problem by increasing the pay of civilian government workers, but to the failure of the National Military Establishment to submit recommendations. There is assurance, however, that the pay board will complete its work in August so that when Congress next meets it can take up this vital subject. The bill giving to Army and Air Force personnel the same retirement privileges previously accorded the Sea Services was signed by the President this week, thus completing the third objective on the list. The Army and Navy construction authorization bills, with their housing provisions, were enacted and some funds appropriated to start the work. Further appropriations for scientific research were made available, but no additional safeguards in secrecy were enacted and labor disputes again threatened to interfere with the atomic energy program. Reserves and the National Guard made considerable progress. The authority for inactive duty pay was enacted, more funds were appropriated, and recruiting was vastly stimulated through the Selective Service bill. Promotions under the new personnel act have not yet gotten fairly under way and will not until after the end of this year, but we will continue our insistence upon free and full publicity during the current process of setting up the initial promotion lists under the new selective system. Great progress has been made toward the development of the career plan for warrant officers as well as enlisted men and commissioned officers. The top Service schools have grown in prestige and influence. Legislation was enacted increasing pensions for widows and orphans of service personnel so that the widow and one child of a war veteran will receive $100 a month and a widow and one child of a peace-time veteran will receive $80 a month, with corresponding increases for additional children.

Thus the 80th Congress has done well toward the improvement of the National Defense structure and the welfare of Service personnel. The ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL is proud of the progress made toward the objectives we set in our editorial program. Before Congress convenes again we shall set up a new and revised Priority List. In it, upward revision of Service pay must and will be given top priority, for that is now the important requirement if the Armed Services are to attract and retain personnel of the necessarily high caliber. Other items, too, will be added as their need is shown. To help us in this task we ask that our readers send us their suggestions and supporting data.

IN Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Governor Earl Warren of California, the Republican party has nominated for National leadership men who have consistently supported the building up of a strong National Defense. Mr. Dewey has been a staunch advocate of Universal Military Training, both he and Mr. Warren having been among the group of governors which unanimously endorsed UMT some months ago. In an address at Milwaukee in April, Mr. Dewey urged the restoration of American military strength through UMT or limited selective service and the creation of the "strongest Air Force in the World." Shortly after he was elected Governor of New York he secured the services of Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who had recently retired after a brilliant career in the Army, to build up the State Guard and subsequently to reconstitute the National Guard of New York. He now has in the National Guard of New York a total of 25,381 men organized into two infantry divisions (27th and 42d) two brigades of anti-aircraft artillery, Corps Field Artillery, and one wing (52d) of fighter airplanes. Mr. Dewey has taken a direct personal interest in the building up of these units and in increasing their effectiveness. Governor Warren likewise has supported UMT and a strong National Defense and has pushed the upbuilding of the California National Guard, now a thriving organization of two infantry divisions (40th and 49th), two brigades of anti-aircraft artillery, and two fighter wings (61st and 62d) of aircraft. At Honolulu recently Mr. Warren declared that "a system of UMT which would give full credit for service in the National Guard and Organized Reserves will give strength and resilience to our Armed Forces that we didn't have at the outset of either World War." In light, thus, of their experience and their personal views, the nominees may be expected to carry out wholeheartedly the strong National Defense planks in the Republican platform.

Personal Fitting

Old Tom Moore had had a good week and thought he would buy his wife a present, so he picked up the table, carried it out of the house, put it on top of his head, and trotted off down the road with it.

Old Bill Brown met him.

"Allo, Tom, are you moving?"

"No," said Tom. "I'm going to buy the missus a tablecloth."

R. C. H.—Although passed by the Senate, S-637 was not acted upon by the House. It is possible that this legislation will be reintroduced during the next session of Congress.

P. B. C.—According to the AGO it is not contemplated that pay periods for Army officers will be changed to correspond with the new periods of time required for promotion to the various ranks as provided under the Officer Personnel Act of 1947. Pay periods will remain the same, it was stated.

J. A. M.—H. R. 2744, Sect. 203 (a) and (e) applies only to the higher active duty commissioned, warrant officer or enlisted Grade satisfactorily held for a period of six months between 9 Sept. 1940 and 30 June 1946. A higher commissioned grade held during World War I, or a retired grade held under the Act of 7 May 1932 would not be considered in determining the grade in which a soldier might be retired under the provisions of this bill.

R. P. D.—The Adjutant General's Office has advised us that DA Circular 59, 1948, is the directive pertaining to the Philippine Independence Ribbon.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Foreign Affairs—A world which for years has uneasily watched Soviet Russia roll ruthlessly over the borders of neighboring small states and, whether by military might or by elimination of a few independent leaders, absorb them wholly into the Moscow-satellite system, witnessed this week the first impressive rebellion. It may be presumed that Russian agents in Belgrade sent word that Marshal Tito, once a Stalin favorite, was about to defy Russia, and that the Cominform thereupon seized the initiative and denounced Tito first. It is difficult to see, otherwise, why the Cominform should have itself made the announcement of a split in Communist unity. For whatever reason, the split was heralded to all quarters, and a gratified western world provided with a front-row seat for an intra-Communist fight which certainly is not yet over. There must be no delusion that Tito is pro-west. He is Moscow-trained and as much a Communist as Stalin himself—a truer one in performance, Tito asserted in effect in his defiant and contemptuous reply to the Cominform. He is completely totalitarian and completely ruthless, as his behavior with regard to the unfortunate Mihailowics proved. The answer to Moscow reeks with Communist rhetoric, and the men whom Tito has put in office replacing a couple of Moscow stooges are just as fully Communist as their predecessors. Tito's "offense" is that he defies party discipline, in that he does not bend to Stalin; that he supports the Yugoslav "popular front" rather than the Moscow edict (itself a tip-off on what Moscow thinks of "autonomous popular fronts" in France and Italy); in brief, that the truculent and intensely nationalistic Yugoslavs are still Yugoslavs demanding a national autonomy within the Communist group and refusing to be mere followers of Moscow orders with regard to Yugoslav affairs. This is a very different thing from a defiance of communism per se, and must be a guide to American estimates of the situation. The all-important thing is that in this one spectacular instance the Russian Politburo's absolute domination of world communism is badly shaken, and is shaken so violently and so publicly that Moscow's humiliation is visible to dissident elements in the other satellite states. It is the sort of thing which could encourage rebellion in those other states, notably in Hungary which is restive under Moscow-planted officials whose views are far from Hungarian, and in Czechoslovakia whose popular eagerness for self-government is as great as its capacity. But rebellion is not easy in a police state, where the police powers (completely exercised from Moscow save, apparently, in Belgrade) can be ruthlessly employed to eliminate the rebel leaders as rapidly as they lift their heads. It is only when the dominant power is distracted or weakened that rebellion is easy: only when Hitler invaded Russia did the Baltic slave-states of Moscow throw off their chains—re-accepting them meekly enough four years later when Moscow's military might returned. One thing is clear: Stalin knows how serious the Yugoslav revolt can be, and has already called on his followers to eject Tito. Moscow is forced to make a fight of it, and has the power to conduct it. We should know before long whether, in fact, Moscow is capable of retaining every inch of the vast territory absorbed since 1944, or whether it has seized too much and abused too much, and must begin disgorge. The row with Belgrade may provide the answer. The need in Washington is for single-minded steadiness of purpose while European events unfold.

General Lucius Clay and his British colleague in Berlin, Sir Brian Robertson, have not been content to stand firm in the grave German issue provoked by the Russian commandant. Both have moved forward briskly and confidently to break the Russian will, in spite of Moscow's enormous advantage of position. General Clay immediately announced that he would not be driven out of Berlin save by act of war. Instead of mourning over Russia's insolent cutting off of rail and highway communication between Berlin and the west, he initiated a great increase of communication by air. Cargo planes were pressed into double-duty, carrying drugs and small-capacity foods (such as fats) into Berlin to add to the three weeks' store of foods in the American sector of the threatened capital. General Robertson, in mocking acceptance of the Russian declaration that the roads had been necessarily closed for repairs, pushed capacity loads of food into the capital by canal-barges. At General Clay's request three squadrons of C-54s were shifted from American operating bases to the Frankfurt area, and another reserve squadron ordered up to Westover field in case of need. As a healthful reminder of our combat as well as cargo strength, a new flight of jet-fighters is ordered overseas on what is called a pioneer training operation, which will be impressive as evidence of these planes' ability to make the ocean transit with halts at Labrador, Greenland, Iceland, and Scotland. Also there now are three squadrons of B-29s moving in and out of Germany on "training missions." The Berlin situation can at anytime become troublesome. Even this torrent of cargo planes, working day and night and without operational accident, could not for long provide the total needs of the 2,000,000 and more German civilians in western Berlin. Russian control of power and water supply in much of the zone provides a further menace, and Russian ruthlessness is so fully known that Berlin's citizens have appealed to the United Nations for action to avert Berliners' suffering and death. In this situation the stalwart and determined behavior of General Clay and General Robertson, and their support by their home governments, are wholly admirable. Indeed a hint of Russian weakening became apparent at midweek, when the Soviet commander, Sokolowsky, suggested that the rail lines into Berlin might be repaired more quickly than he once had thought likely. If a change in Moscow's attitude comes, it will not be due to the work of the repair-gangs, but to the firmness of the United States and Great Britain and, to no small degree, to Moscow uneasiness over what the Yugoslav revolt may herald. Tito is no friend of democracy, let it be remembered, but during World War II this country had one or two queer allies serving a useful purpose in time of trouble.

The first jet fighters bound overseas are 16 in number, a part of the 56th Fighter Group of Lockheed F-80 Shooting Stars based at Selfridge Field, Mich. They will leave next week for Furstenfeldbruck, under command of Lt. Col. David C. Schilling, preceded by a B-29 for weather reconnaissance and navigational aid if needed on this pioneering venture. Air-rescue facilities will be set up on each of the over-water legs. A satisfying test of the F-80 in long over-water flight was provided this past week by four planes making the 820-mile hop from Andrews Field, Md., to Bermuda. Next week's flight will provide a fuller operational test. The first assignment of the jet-fighters to Germany on a more permanent basis, it will be recalled, is that of the 36th Fighter Wing's 75 "Shooting Stars" which are to leave Panama in mid-August by ship-transfer.

The developments in Yugoslav Communism comes at an important time. There is a well-grounded belief that Moscow was planning world-wide tests for this summer, on the Muscovite theory that American effort would be paralyzed by campaign-year discord: (a theory which some bad bungling in Congress may have seemed to sustain) this was the basis of the State Department's grim warning to the contrary which was delivered to Moscow by the U. S. Ambassador, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith a few weeks ago. Only this last week U. S. occupation authorities in Austria warned against a Soviet coup, following Russian seizure of the Austrian police official Marek in an effort to gain control of the police. On that same day the Italian Communist leader, Togliatti, smarting from a spanking just given him in Moscow for his loss of the recent elections, came back to Rome and announced that Italy's Communists would open an all-out fight on the European Recovery Program, starting with a series of planted strikes. Disorders are active in Malaya already and threatened in Indo-China and Siam. In Burma, where Communists were the loudest in demanding independence, they now have rebelled against the new independent government. Most of these scattered acts of sedition will continue to be carried on by local communists, but the planned subversions in Austria and Trieste and the Berlin operation will be directly affected by the Moscow-Belgrade dispute.

The UN truce mission in Palestine has been increased by more American personnel during the week, including 51 Marines (Lt. R. H. McMullen) sent ashore from the USS Marquette to handle UN signal communications. The naval medical research unit in Cairo has sent a 4-man team, and three more officers (Comdr. Monroe Kelly, Jr., and Lt. Comdr. William T. Amen, USN and Lt. Col. Ben F. Previtt, USMC) have joined the UN Mission. The Sixth Task Fleet has landed jeeps, trucks and radio material to assist Count Bernadotte, UN Mediator in Palestine. Assignments to "truce" duty are not without peril, it was discovered during the week when an Egyptian fighter plane strafed an unarmed UN observer plane piloted by Lt. Col. Michael Martin, an American officer and forced it to the ground. Egyptian ground forces were meantime clearly violating the truce by interfering with a legitimate food convoy.

"UNITED STATES AT WAR"

• A limited number of copies of the Army and Navy Journal's historic volumes, "United States At War" is still available. This series, the first volume of which was published 7 December 1942 with succeeding volumes each year until the War's end, forms a complete history of World War II in authoritative articles written by Military, Naval and civilian leaders actually in charge of the operations in the active theaters and at home. Profusely illustrated, they merit a place in every well balanced library.

A small number of each of the volumes is ready for distribution at $3.00 per copy in paper binding and $5.00 in cloth binding. (Copies of Volume I are available only in paper binding.)

Obituaries

Maj. Gen. Julian Lindsey

Maj. Gen. Julian Robert Lindsey, USA-Ret., died at Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington on 27 June at the age of 77. Funeral services were held 29 June in the Walter Reed Memorial Chapel and interment was at West Point the following day.

A veteran of 42 years of active cavalry service before his retirement in 1934, General Lindsey was a pioneer in the application of cavalry tactics in mechanized warfare.

From 1912 to 1916, General Lindsey was senior cavalry instructor at the U. S. Military Academy and revised the Academy's riding manual. He also introduced polo at the Academy. Among the Cadets who studied under him were the future Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Omar N. Bradley, and Mark W. Clark.

A native of Georgia, General Lindsey entered the U. S. Military Academy at the age of 17 and was graduated in the Class of 1882 to be commissioned a Second Lieutenant of Cavalry.

He served in China during the Boxer Rebellion of 1901; the Cuban Pacification Campaign of 1908, and was a cavalry instructor at a series of posts including Ft. Myer and the Academy.

During World War I General Lindsey, then a Lieutenant Colonel, was the first officer assigned to the newly-activated 82d Division, in command of the 164th Infantry Brigade. In this command he was awarded the DSM with the citation:

"The brilliant and successful attack of the 164th Infantry Brigade, 82d Division, commanded by him, in the Argonne Forest showed a spirit of aggressiveness and leadership of high order. The tactical advantage gained in this section, whereby St. Juvin and Grand Pre were laid open to attack, was largely due to his ability and energy."

After World War I, General Lindsey served in the War Department on the General Staff for four years. In January, 1932 he was given command of Ft. Knox, Ky., which he held until his retirement. After retirement, he made his home at the Army and Navy Club in Washington.

The General is survived by his son, Col. Julian B. Lindsey, GSC, presently on duty at the Pentagon; a grandson, Robert Hunter, and a granddaughter, Anne Tucker. His wife, the former Miss Hannah Broster, of Montreal, died in 1905.

Mrs. Anne P. Porter

She was the mother of Mrs. Mary Emily Porter Smith, wife of Col. Perry McC. Smith, Chief, Coast Artillery Branch, Career Management Group, P&A Division, and the grandmother of George Anne Porter Smith and Perry McCoy Smith, Jr.

Her husband, George W. Porter, former Assistant Treasurer of the New York Central Railroad, died in 1923.

Mrs. Porter was born in New York City where she spent most of her early life. For the past 12 years she made her home with Colonel and Mrs. Smith in Panama; Ft. Monroe, Va.; Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.; Hawaii; and Richmond, Va. She went to Italy with Mrs. Smith and her two grandchildren in July, 1946, to join Colonel Smith who was then Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3, Allied Force Headquarters and MTOUSA. Colonel and Mrs. Smith are now living at 3317 Cleveland Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Porter was buried beside her husband in Harrisburg, Pa., on 28 June.

Financial Digest

Agreement between coal mine operators and the United Mine Workers on a new wage and working contract, effective 1 July, has eased tensions in securities exchanges that were getting a bit jittery over the prospect of a strike in the coal fields. Exact terms of the contract have not been published, but it is reliably reported wage boosts will increase the price of coal to consumers between 40 and 50 cents the ton.

Trading in exchanges has been moving at a slower pace than in previous weeks, with daily sales barely topping a million shares, against daily figures of nearly 1.4 million. With the slow trading, prices have remained firm, but advances have been negligible. Stocks showing any increase did so in very small fractions of a dollar.

Although trading in listed securities has been slow, the week has been marked by several new offerings totaling more than $250 million, all of which were bid in at premium prices.

Commodities markets have been more active than the securities exchanges, with cotton, grain, oils and fats showing rapid turnovers, but no really marked advances in prices. However, adverse weather reports have caused corn to move up more than other grains.

Although final figures are not available, preliminary reports indicate the Treasury finished the fiscal year 30 June with a budget surplus of $8 billion.

An agreement looking toward the retention of the controversial hiring hall system of employment was reached this week between the ship operators and an AFL seamen's union. This became known following a joint announcement by the Seafarers International Union and the Atlantic and Gulf Coast Operators Association. The agreement involves some 30,000 union members.

The agreement to retain the hiring halls was contained in a clause of a new contract being negotiated to replace the present contract between the SIU and the association. Wages and working conditions remain to be negotiated. Under contract provisions the operators continue to have the right to reject unsatisfactory employees sent by the halls.

The union said negotiations will continue on unsettled clauses. If full accord is not obtained by 30 July, a spokesman said, the present contract will continue in force until complete agreement is reached or until either party notifies the other in writing that negotiations are stalemated.

The announcement of the retention of the hiring halls came three days after a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner in Washington, ruling on a Great Lakes case, held that the CIO National Maritime Union had violated the Taft-Hartley Act by insisting on retaining the hiring halls. The effect of this ruling on the SIU agreement, if any, was not immediately known.

Industrial College Graduates

The names of Col. Robert F. Fulton and Lt. Col. Calvin M. Bryan, both USAF, were inadvertently omitted from the list of graduates from the Industrial College of the Armed Forces as reported on page 1155 of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL for 26 June.

Act on Pay Report

camps of these civilian increments.
Mr. Verne D. Mudge will have the western States as his district; Mr. J. M. Chambers will range the states including and southward from New York; Mr. Mark H. Galusha will cover the New England and perhaps the central states.
Senator Gurney has informed the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL that their duties will include observation of the training being given to draft selectees and volunteers, and of their physical welfare including the housing provided for them. In addition, they will be expected to watch for, and avert, possible duplication of expenditures from appropriations made for military purposes, and to discover any multiplication of facilities when the use of a single facility by two or more Departments might be possible.

The members of the professional staff will report periodically to the members of the subcommittee, and at appropriate times will meet with the subcommittee for consultation and necessary action.

Until such time as the "watch-dog" subcommittee calls on the professional staff for its cooperation, this staff, under the direction of, and in cooperation with, Mr. John G. Adams, Chief Clerk of the full committee, will carry out missions and legislative studies involved in the responsibilities of and designated by the Senate Committee on Armed Services.

Liaison Officers Dropped

According to Senator Gurney, the plan of maintaining liaison between the Senate Committee on Armed Services and the Departments of the Military Establishment has been proven unnecessary and has illustrated duplication criticized in Departmental administration. Because of this, the liaison set-up in the committee has been abolished, and the liaison officers involved have been assigned to other duties in their respective Departments. Col. Frank A. Allen, Jr., USA, has been the Army representative, and Capt. Harold A. Houser, USN, the Navy member.

The Chairman believes that using the professional and committee staffs is more expeditious, cutting out the intermediate step of the liaison group, because more direct, and that it will provide a financial saving for the Government.

Letters to the Editor

The Retirement Bill

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

I just want to take a few lines to congratulate the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL on its fine work in connection with HR 2744.

For a long, long time the JOURNAL has been plugging in this connection, and now apparently has been successful.

I know that I voice the opinion of a lot of soldiers when I say, congratulations for a job well done.

Fred Johnson,
Major, GMC.

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

Nothing ever was more welcome in our little home than the JOURNAL of 19th June announcing the passage of the Retirement Bill.

I know I am speaking for thousands "that your loyal support and hard work helped to expedite the passage of the Bill and to you we all say many, many thanks and may your great paper continue to support the cause of the Armed Forces."

I've read the JOURNAL many years and never miss a copy, and hope to continue to read it as many more years.

Again I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

W. R. Stevenson,
M. Sgt. (Ret.)
Lt. Col. A. U. S.

Promotion Lists

Editor, ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

You certainly are to be congratulated on the editorial in the last issue relative to publication of the new promotion lists. Somebody has to keep pointing out the desirability for early release of such information. The fact that promotion lists were only published by branches in the latest Register does not help much in determining what is happening under the new law. Keep up the good work.

Major, USA.

Women's Educational Specialist

Appointment of Miss Helen Hosp, prominent women's education specialist, of Washington, D. C., as adviser for female education to the Civil Information and Education Section, Supreme Command for the Allied Powers, was announced by the Department of the Army.

Miss Hosp, who has held the position of Higher Education Associate with the national headquarters of the American Association of University Women since 1941, will serve as special adviser to the chief of the Education Division in formulation of policies, concerning Japanese female education.

To Increase Air Reserve

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Cornelius V. Whitney told a meeting of the District Air Force reservists in Washington this week that the Air Force will just about double its Reserve program for the coming fiscal year.

Mr. Whitney said that the number of reservists who will get year-round training in the coming year will total 70,000. This figure compares with 25,000 who received comparable training this year. Active duty will be provided for 35,000 more as against 22,000 this year.

Dirigible Study Vetoed

President Truman this week exercised the pocket veto to kill H.R. 6628, which would have authorized and directed the U. S. Maritime Commission to study, and plan for, experimental lighter-than-air rigid airship construction and operation.

Sports Front

THE interest of service personnel in the athletic teams representing their installation, and the eagerness with which the athletically inclined compete for positions on those teams, are at times unbelievable. However, there is one little matter connected with military life that takes precedence over sports, and the Eighth Air Force, with headquarters at Fort Worth, realizes it.

The originally announced dates for the 8th AF softball tournament, a round robin affair, were 29 June-1 July, inclusive. Capt. Jack H. Heinzel, recently assigned as special services officer for the Eighth, took one look at the dates and saw that, while they would work no hardship on the members of the Kearney (Neb.) AFB team, since Kearney is host to the tourney, competitors from Walker, Carswell, Davis-Monthan and the 9th Bomb Wing would be out of luck. Their players would miss pay day!

Captain Heinzel promptly sent out a revised schedule. The tournament will be held 6-9 July, inclusive, so that the players can have a light heart and a heavy purse.

JOTTINGS . . . The 2d Army baseball club had a narrow squeak last week. Ahead 2-0 over the Arcadia team from Baltimore in a game played at Meade, they allowed the visitors 4 runs in the first half of the sixth. In the last half of the same frame, the heavens opened and the umpires called the game because of rain, so that the score reverted to 2-0. P.S.—The umpires were from Baltimore. . . Big Ed Berry, hurling ace of the Severn River Naval Command nine, has been transferred from Annapolis, leaving behind a record of 6-0 for the year. . . Members of the Aberdeen Proving Ground rifle team won nine out of eleven matches at the recent Tri-State Rifle event held at Chattanooga, Tenn. . . The 2d Army Golf Tourney goes at Fort Knox 27-30 July, while the 3d Army Baseball diplo, a double elimination affair, takes place at Fort Bragg 24-27 August.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS . . . Col. Raymond Stone, Jr., successfully defended his Antilles singles title on the Ft. Brooke (P.R.) courts, beating T. Sgt. Herb Rubin, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5. Stone teamed with Col. Elmo S. Matthews to wrest the doubles crown from Rubin and Lt. Miguel A. Pinon, last year's title holders. . . Winners of Ft. Bragg court championships: men's singles, Maj. Edwin Arnold; men's doubles, Pfc. Gerald Murphy and Robert Bramhall; women's singles, Mrs. Margaret Kampe; mixed doubles, Maj. & Mrs. L. H. McBride. . . For the second consecutive year, members of West Point installation tennis team swept all championships in the First Army tournament. . . Capt. James H. Swann won the Ft. Eustis singles title and teamed with Capt. Richard J. Lombard to take the doubles crown.

EIGHTH ARMY NOTES . . . As all good things must come to an end, the 24th Infantry Regiment nine's win streak was cut short at 21 by the First Cavalry Division. . . T/4 Albert Liu and Lt. Wilfred J. Lescaubeau won the Camp Drake tennis tournament. . . An intra-division softball tournament is now underway at Camp Drake.
